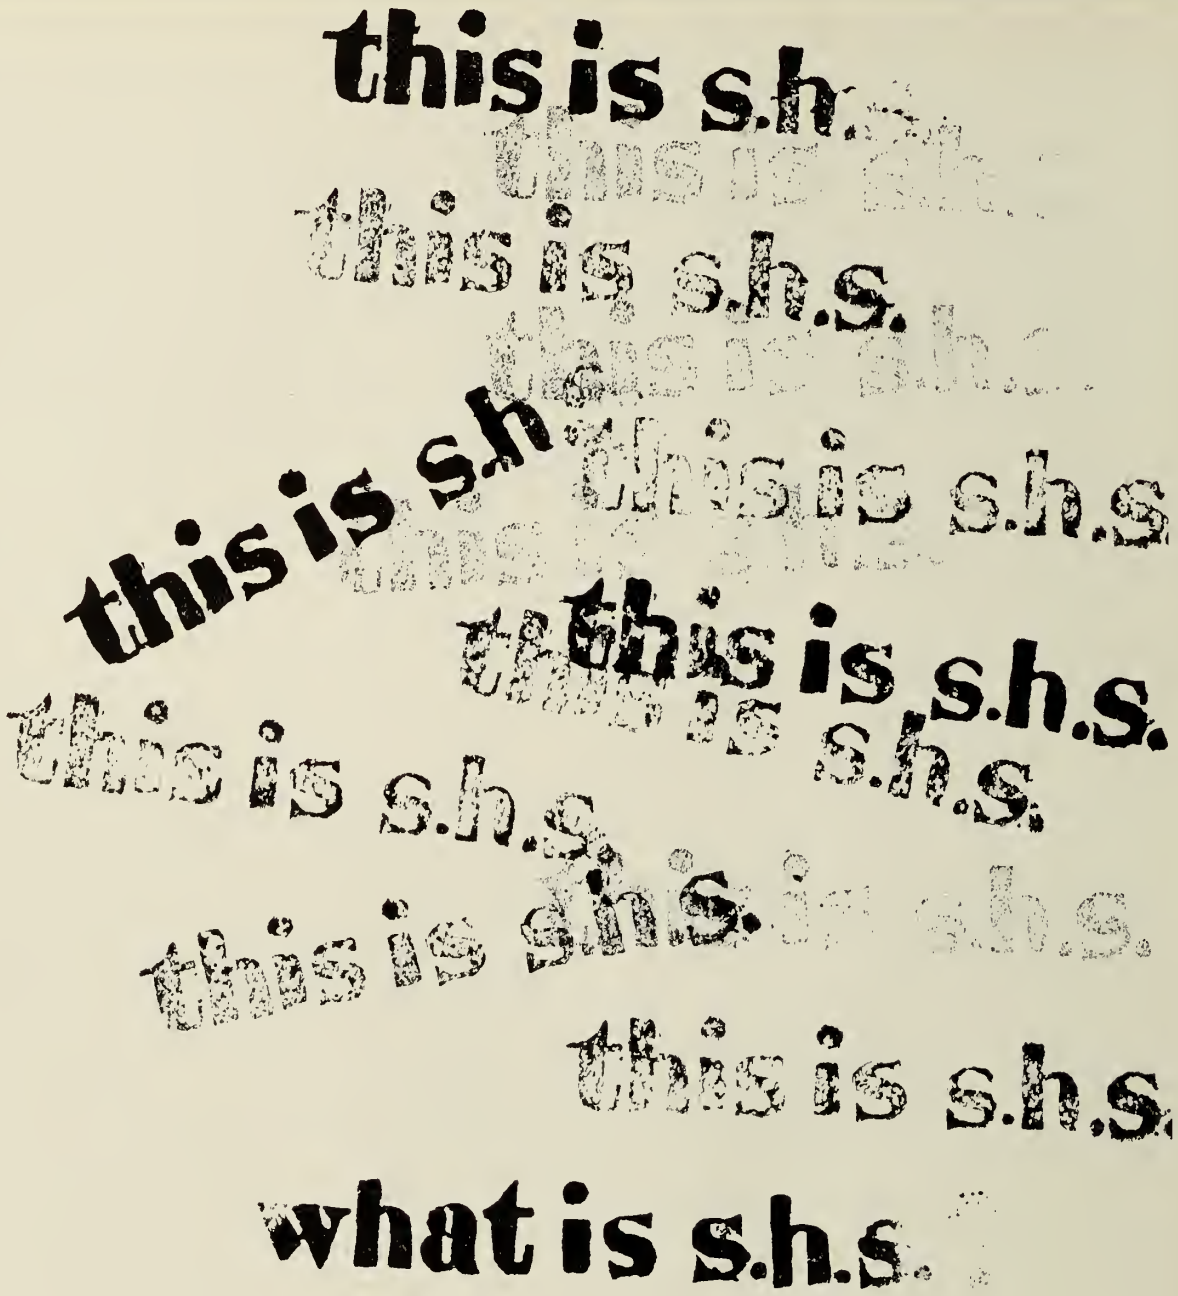
SUTTON MEMORIAL HIGH SCHOOL
SUTTON, MASSACHUSETTS
VOLUME 32



Sutton High School provides a diversified curriculum. In offering college preparatory, commercial, and general programs, it attempts to approximate the comprehensive high school, although this concept is tailored to meet the needs of a small community. The faculty believes that the school is concerned with all phases of individual growth and accomplished this in the reinforcement of classroom learnings which occurs in its extracurricular activities. These athletic and general activities have made Sutton well-known in the area. An atmosphere of friendliness and respect permeates Sutton High School. Since Sutton is a relatively small school, the students' contacts with the teachers provide close interaction in the school.

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:

A time to be born, and a time to die;
A time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;
A time to kill, and a time to heal;
A time to break down, and a time to build up;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
A time to mourn, and a time to dance;
A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;
A time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to get, and a time to lose;
A time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew;
A time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate;
A time of war, and a time of peace. Ecclesiastes 3:1-8

Words are so often inadequate instruments of thought, and our strongest feelings lend themselves least easily to expression. To sound the depths of appreciation for numberless hours of unsung labor; to voice our heartfelt thanks for your tireless efforts; to show our appreciation of your wise and thoughtful counsel; to express our sincerest gratitude for your ardent devotion to the Class of 1970, such was our desire in dedicating this EXITUS. (Due to the fact that we had a deadline to meet and you never stayed after long enough to help us finish this dedication, we'll have to end it here.) And so for this and much more, we dedicate EXITUS 1970, our work and expression of our hearts, to you, Miss ANNE KOBACK.

Yet he gives a surprise turn to conversation by his unexpected witticisms. Retaining his coolness under sometimes trying conditions, he remains the backbone of all functions and performs his tasks inspiring positive contributions to the student body.

Freshman Class

new~bright hours

Caught up in a whirl of selecting a curriculum and adjusting to the early morning hours, the freshmen travel along the roads of new endeavors. As they strive for self-improvement, they develop a daily routine of work, study, and play to fill a treasure chest of memories. Music, drama, and a variety of interesting clubs are added diversions in their attractive school life. Meeting and accepting their real challenge as classes began, the new underclassmen joined together and elected reliable and capable officers and then an advisor. Now the time has come to set about collecting dues and anticipating their first dance in the spring.

The Freshman class pres. R. Carter has plenty on her mind. . . . "Algebra's over, French next, then I can call a class meeting . . . "

sunny days

No longer are they the confused, dazed, new arrivals. No more is there the expression of surprise. Now, as sophomores, they have gained confidence in their abilities and have discovered that cooperation of everyone is essential. Realizing that they have more to learn, this year the sophomore surges ahead, discovering unexplored fields. The happy sophomore is introduced to a new world of biology and geometry. They learn to analyze the why of living things, and the intricate design of geometric figures, and they delve into the great plays of Shakespeare.

Sophomore W. Ordung and R. Comeau prepare a background scene for the sophomore class production of "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky".

Junior Class

a time of jubilation

Golden moments are reflected in the hearts of each junior as they receive the long-awaited class rings. Looking forward to participating in school projects, the high-spirited juniors take part wholeheartedly in classes and extracurricular activities. Each day furnishes additional material and development along literary lines. Algebra II, chemistry, and U.S. History stimulate mental facilities. English affords students development along literary lines while the Junior Prom, the winter semi-formal, and auction energize the seeds of school spirit until it is vibrantly alive. Impatient to reach the gold-emblemed year, they realize that one of the happiest school years is ending.

N. Charpentier exercises his gymnastic talents in the straddle vault as Mr. Ellis looks on.

Happiness is the shorthand class.

The experiment is all wet and so are the students.

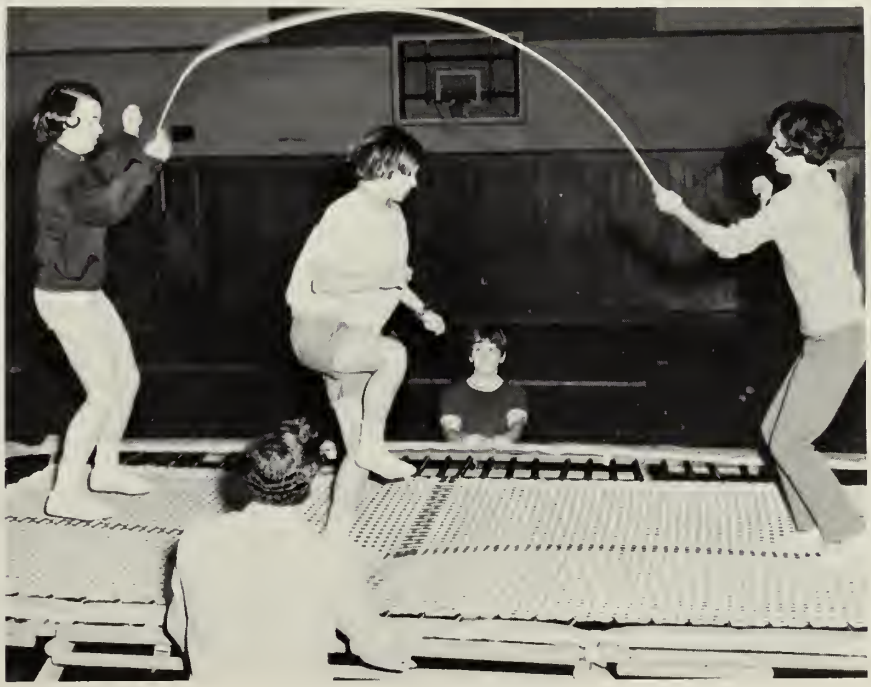
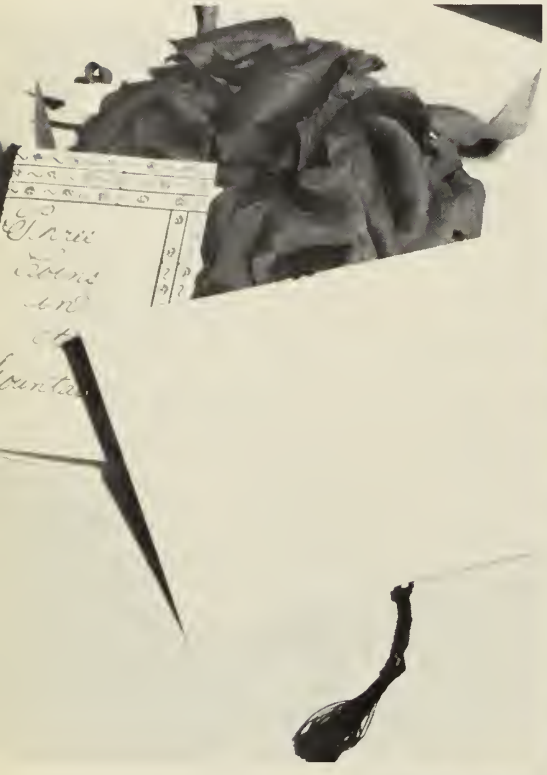
the climax nears

We have reached the end of our high school days, having a reservoir of knowledge in the sciences, languages, and business world taught to us by teachers specialized in their certain areas of study. Added to these subjects, we have acquired a new awareness of the responsibilities facing us in a world filled with decisions to be made. During our memorable year as seniors, we worked together as a class uniting our efforts in the publication of the yearbook, the expenditures for the class trip and Senior Prom, and finally graduation. That night in June marks the conclusion of twelve years spent in the realm of education.



a night of splendor



At 8:00p.m. on April 26, 1968, the clock rang in the long-awaited Junior Prom. After many weeks of preparation, in an array of multi-colored streamers and soft lights, glitter, laughter, and gaiety blended into the sounds of music by the Velveteens. Amidst the gala affair the Queen, Sharon Bohanan, and her court were chosen. But all too soon, at the stroke of midnight the evening was over.

Business managers continually wondered if they had enough money.

After attending the yearbook conference at Columbia University, the co-editors of EXITUS, settling down to work, began making changes in the plans already begun in early September. The talents and energies of the staff were challenged from plan-making September through the harried last-minute deadlines. Yet, humor was part of the bustling office practice room each afternoon as the co-editors surveyed chaos with a chuckle.

In today's society, music is essential to our existence. Each student is given the opportunity to participate, thanks to the efforts of the directors. With hard work and excellent direction, the voices of the chorus are blended together by Mr. King.

The band, after long hours of practice at home, and at school under the supervision of Mr. Holland, presents to us the popular tunes of our times.

January 14, 1970

Dear Miss Koback,

This brief letter is to inform you that we as the co-editors of the 1970 Exitus have hereby resigned. This resignation comes after many trying and tiring days and after much deep ~~th~~ thought.

Before leaving we would like to thank you for the trip to New York. It was both educational and fun.

We also would like to wish you luck in attempt at making another yearbook again this year. ~~I/A/S/~~ We also hope that your staff next year has more luck and co-operation than we ~~ha~~ had this year. You are wel ~~qqqqq~~ come to use the good ideas that we never had a chance to use.

By the time you get this letter we will have left the country. So farewell.

"Hi! I'm Jon Brennan, and I'm selling candy for the senior class."

Early in the fall, seniors find themselves confronted with the age-old problem of having sufficient funds in the treasury to meet all of pressing financial obligations. The major expense of the yearbook forced the seniors to get out and sell ads and procure patrons and sell books. Highest salesmen from each homeroom were awarded cash prizes, Denise Heminway and Peggy Stewart, respectively. The Class of 1970 managed to surpass the unrealistic goal of $2500 and reach $3300. Helping to add money to that secured from class dues, the seniors worked together, selling candy and making a profit of $400.

"They'll never miss one box."

"Who's No. 1?" That which seemed impossible became a reality for the first time during the fall season when the Sutton Harriors were successful in winning all of their meets. School spirit continued to mount as the Cross Country team maintained first place. The daily regiment of practice and workouts was the prerequisite stressed by Coach Ellis. Leading their team to victory, Jeff Corey and Pat Shannon set record timings. Other members of the varsity squad whose combined efforts helped make Sutton High rank first are Capt. R. Robbins, D. Eklund, D. LeClaire, P. LaCava, T. Green, M. Jerz, A. Johnson, W. Chapdelaine, and P. Slocum.

A cluster of snowflakes and a sleigh placed against a background of evergreens served as the setting for the Junior-Senior Semi-Formal. Amidst the loveliness and beauty emerged the unsightly sextet, "Lucifer", with long hair and attire characteristic of the Hippie World, who were accompanied by their fan club. victory

"Come out fighting."

School spirit increased this year as the J.V. team had an almost perfect season. The disappointment came the night of the last game with our rival Douglas who managed to break the record, winning by one point. D. Eklund, a sophomore, was the main figure in the team's very impressive record. He led the team not only in his consistent scoring by means of a patented jump shot, but stood out more so in his fine ball handling and passing abilities. Our varsity team, spurred on by spirited cheerleaders, brought the school a much better record than past years. They finally won more than they lost, claiming victory to eleven out of eighteen. Co-captains G. Ford and M. Jerz maintained team unity and team work to which the team owes much. Coach Ellis emphasized that the qualities of good sportsmanship on the court are just as important as winning the game and because of his patient and skillful coaching Sutton enjoyed a fine basketball season.

grand finale

The best culmination of a most successful year for the Sutton High Suzies was the winning of our own Sutton Invitational Tournament. The noise of buzzers, bells, cheering crowds and screams of excitement filled the gym Saturday night when the Sutton Suzies beat Hudson Catholic. Quick passing, dribbling, and goal shooting were the fundamental techniques executed by the members of the team coached by Miss Smith. The excellence portrayed by the team led to the many victories which put the Suzies in first place.

M. Jerz gives a lesson in foul shooting.

Marcia tries again.

Both varsity teams were victorious as they withstood the challenge presented by the returning alumni. The Suzies solidly trounced the alumnae by a score of 52-19. The Sammies also had little trouble subduing their opponents in the second game. At the conclusion of the games, a buffet was enjoyed by both varsity and returning graduates.

"We're the 'Fightin' Fakilty"

Jump, Jump, Jump!

March 6, 1970, the undefeated Women's Faculty sought to beat the Sutton Suzies (No. 1) in the annual Faculty vs. Varsity Scholarship Game. Surprising the Suzies and crowd with their banner, the women faculty in attractive outfits presented a new twist, new techniques, and new rules, turning the once upon a time serious sport into a hilarous game. In over-time, the Suzies won 23-22. However a more serious game was played by the men faculty and boys' varsity, each team playing to win. Throughout the entire game it was basket for basket, no one team taking the lead. Yet in the final seconds of the game, the varsity team scored, winning the game 64-62.

Spring, the sweet Spring,
Is the year's pleasant king;
Then blooms each thing,
Then maids dance in a ring.

Mr. D. Schwab delivers speech at assembly.

National Honor Assembly opens with a prayer for peace.

"The Touch of the Master's Hand", a favorite poem of Donald G. Schwab for whom the Chapter was named, was a highlight of the induction of new members of the Junior and Senior classes into the National Honor Society whose theme was "Pathways to Peace". Good Scholarship, fine Character, inspiring Leadership, and unselfish Service are the pathways which will lead to our final goal of peace.

Congratulations to D. Smith are made by J. Picard, president.

The creative art class adds detail and finishing touches before the exhibition.

The culmination of the year's work in art was displayed on the school grounds at the 2nd annual Art Show. The exhibit, directed by Mrs. J. Newton, attracted hundreds of people who also heard the resounding sounds of the jazz band.

The many hours of preparation had spectacular results for those who made personal ventures to sell their works. Seniors took advantage of the last opportunity to earn money running the concession stand.

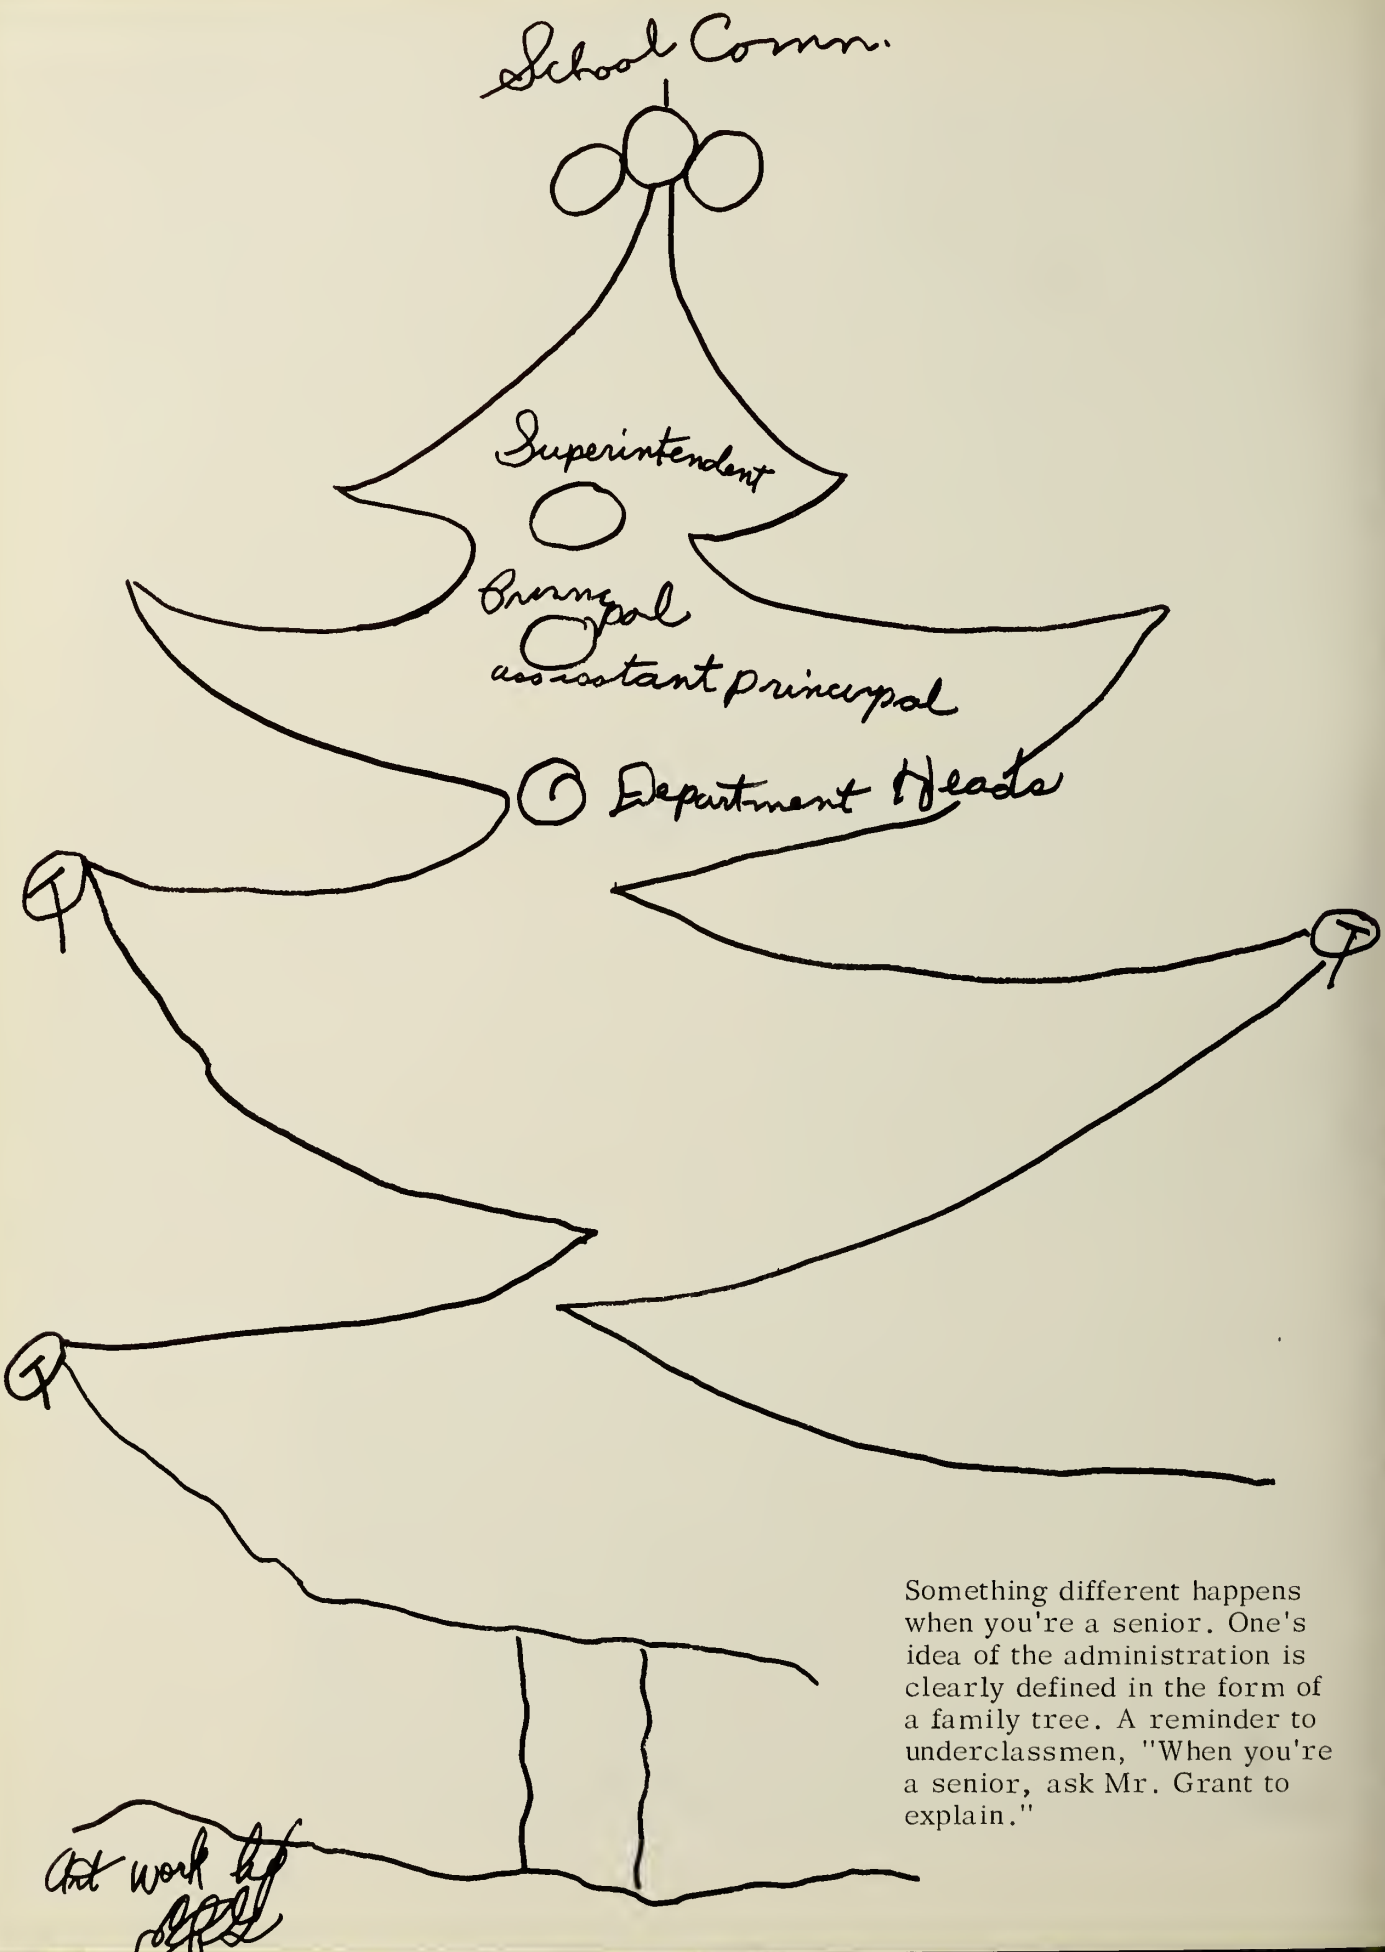
The baseball season wasn't all that bad having as many wins as losses. The captain, R. Boutilier, maintained a batting average of .386 while our winning pitcher was B. McDonald. The experienced Coach Daveau brought Sutton the spirit and skill of previous clubs aiding in their many victories. Winning takes second place, where fun and enjoyment are the major objectives for the girls of the softball team, managed by Susan Smith. Everyone had a chance to play. This element led them to a one game victory on the softball diamond.

What beautiful smiles on the faces of the softball team!



Something different happens when you're a senior. One's idea of the administration is clearly defined in the form of a family tree. A reminder to underclassmen, "When you're a senior, ask Mr. Grant to explain."

The Queen of the Prom

The incidentals went well. It didn't rain, and everyone eventually found White Cliffs. Things might have been better -- perhaps if a certain lady faculty member had come escorted. But the Senior Prom was a more than adequate climax to the social events of the Class of 1970.

leftovers

Our years at Sutton Memorial High School have quickly passed leaving behind many memories . . . These are recorded in EXITUS 1970 . . . It would not have been possible without the help of countless individuals to whom we owe our deepest gratitude . . . Mr. Grant, "The Doer of the Impossible" which only takes a little longer . . . Mr. O'Dea and Miss Picard for literary consultations . . . Mr. Douville for our yearbook shelf . . . Mr. Koliss for his radio and Coke . . . Mr. Shields for boosting our morale in time of distress . . . Mrs. Newton for the art supplies we "borrowed" . . . Mr. Shaw for locking up 204 . . . the faculty for pardoning our few interruptions . . . Mr. Keegan and the efficient employees of LaPorte's for our beautiful senior portraits and other outstanding photographs . . . the Senior Class for our trip to New York . . . Leon and Mr. Ten wherever they may be . . . Mr. Lendry, Mr. Spencer, Mr. Peterson, and Mr. Garon for their help . . . Mrs. Haringa and Mrs. Seaver would like to thank Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Gordon for everything . . . Scott and Linda would like to thank the class for New York . . . and above all we would like to thank the staff for all time and effort which has made EXITUS 1970 . . . and finally Miss Anne T. Koback without whom EXITUS 1970 would never have been possible . . . Thank You.
